Siberian Frost Grass	Spodiopogon sibiricus	4	.7-1.2m	40-60cm	Warm season, slow-growing, clumping, airy grass. Green leaves branch horizontally from stems. Persistent burgundy flowers/seeds delicately rise above leaves, midsummer. Foliage turns burgundy-red in fall, aging to tan.	16.95 (16)
Prairie Drop Seed	Sporobolus				Native. Deer Resistant. Drought tolerant. Food & shelter for birds in winter.
Prairie Drop Seed Grass	Sporobolus heterolepis	4	.6 - 1m	.6 - 1m	Native. Arching mound, clump-forming, warm season ornamental grass. Fine-textured, hair-like, medium-green blades, turn golden with pumpkin-orange hues in fall, fading to light-bronze in winter. Delicate, open-branched, pink and brown-tinted flower panicles rise well-above foliage late summer. Flowers are fragrant like coriander and popcorn. Tiny, rounded mature seeds drop to the ground from their hulls in fall - hence the common name. Nutritious seeds are attractive to songbirds, native grasses are larval food for Leonard's Skipper butterfly. Full sun, well-drained soil. Drought tolerant once established.	16.95 (17)
Bear Grass	Xerophyllum				Attractive to wildlife, pollinators. Good for bank stabilization around ponds. Prefers moist, well-drained soil.
